Dear Yvonne

ICE/IS.2

THE INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS
ANNUAL DINNER – 29 NOVEMBER 2001
PARTNERS' DINNER

On the occasion of the Association's Annual Dinner, I would be delighted if you would join Helen to make up a small dinner party at the Thistle Hotel on the evening of 29 November 2001.

You are invited to join the pre-dinner reception and then adjourn to the private room for a meal, rejoining the Chairman's after-dinner hospitality room till the wee small hours.

The President's wife will be accompanying him on his visit to Scotland this year and I have extended an invitation to her. The dinner has become a way of thanking our long-suffering partners for time lost to ICE business and I hope you can accept this invitation.

Yours sincerely

L. Murphy

This was possibly the last occasion when wives & partners were invited to attend a separate small dinner party while the ICE dinner took place. This was seen as an anachronism and sexist in an age of equality. Later (possibly not the next dinner) wives & partners were invited to participate in the main dinner from a separate table next to the top table along with the past chairmen etc.

Dear Tom,
1CE Glasgow + West of Scotland
Annual Dinner 29 November 2001

You've made her thanks for your ~~invitation~~ ^{letter} of 29 October ^{on 29 November.} inviting her to join Helen for dinner. Unfortunately she has a previously arranged event that evening and will be unable to attend. ~~What a shame!~~ ~~Sorry!~~ Sorry about the delay in replying, I've been away from the office too much recently with best wishes for what I hope will be another great Annual Dinner.

Yours sincerely

HP McCafferty.
